

Learning Outcome

Department of History

The students will be able –

1. To understand the history of Ancient India from the earliest times up to 600 C.E. and explain the social and political organization, religious beliefs and practices and social stratification, political relations, religion and philosophy, the Aryan problem.
2. To distinguish the Social Formations and Cultural Patterns of the ancient world and India.
3. To understand the transformation of modern India (1750-1964) through the colonial period highlighting the harmful impact of colonial rule, the consequent national movement for freedom and the birth of a new Indian state.
4. To demonstrate in written work and class discussions the ability to recognize and articulate the diversity of human experience, including ethnicity, race, language, gender, as well as political, economic, social, and cultural structures over time and space.
5. To create their own historical analysis of documents and develop the ability to think critically and historically when discussing the past.
6. To analyse the political and socio-economic transformation of Europe and creation of modern Europe and the History of East Asia (1839-1950) with China and Japan and U.S.A.
7. To apply the knowledge of World Politics in the 20th century (1919-2000) with emphasis on the rise of dictatorships, the Second World War, the Bi-polar world and the beginning of a uni-polar, globalized world.
8. To analyze and synthesize the major events in modern European History from 1789 to 1939.